

Why me?

The answer to "why me?" is different for everyone because of the many situations that bring people to seek tutoring help. Difficulty in Math is not a curse, a genetic predisposition, or something beyond control, however, it should not be approached like any other academic subject.

Math is like a sport. No one succeeds in a sport without the assistance of a coach, advisor, mentor, etc. Math requires daily practice, like a sport, to master it. Math requires this mastery in order to successfully proceed to the next level, just like an athletic sport. Michael Jordan couldn't help win 6 NBA Championships without mastering his skills by constantly and consistently practicing.
